Part 1. Legal basis

Section 1. Legal basis
This curriculum has been drawn up under the authority endowed by:

• Ministerial Order no. 106 of 12 February 2018 on Admission to and Enrolment on Master’s (Candidatus) Programmes at Universities (kandidatadgangsbekendtgørelsen)
• Ministerial Order no. 1328 of 15 November 2016 on Bachelor’s and Master’s (Candidatus) Programmes at Universities (uddannelsesbekendtgørelsen)
• Ministerial Order no. 1062 of 30 June 2016 on University Examinations and Grading (eksamensbekendtgørelsen)
• Ministerial Order no. 114 of 3 February 2015 on the Grading Scale and Other Forms of Assessment of Study Programmes under the Ministry of Higher Education and Science (karakterbekendtgørelsen).

Part 2. Admission requirements, prescribed period of study, affiliations and title

Section 2. Admission requirements
Admission to the Master's degree programme is in accordance with the Ministerial Order concerning admission and enrolment.

(2) The following bachelor programmes grant direct admission to the master’s programme in Applied Cultural Analysis:

• European Ethnology from The University of Copenhagen
• Anthropology from The University of Copenhagen
• Anthropology from Aarhus University
• Sociology and Cultural Analysis from University of Southern Denmark
• A Bachelor’s degree from the Faculty of Humanities or the Faculty of Social Sciences at The University of Copenhagen, with a minimum of 10 ECTS credits of the Bachelor’s elective in European Ethnology from The University of Copenhagen.

(3) The faculty may admit applicants other than those mentioned in paragraph 2 if is assessed that the applicant has a Bachelor’s degree from a Faculty of Humanities or a Faculty of Social Sciences with at least 30 ECTS in subjects within ethnographical method, anthropological/ethnological cultural analysis and/or theory.

(4) All applicants must have English language proficiency on par with the Danish upper secondary school ‘English level B’ with a weighted average of minimum 3. See http://studies.ku.dk/masters for more information.

(5) The faculty decides the admission capacity for the master’s programme in Applied Cultural Analysis each year. The admission capacity is published each year at studies.ku.dk/masters.

(6) If the number of qualified applicants exceeds the admission capacity, applicants will be prioritised in line with criteria at studies.ku.dk/masters.
Section 3. Prescribed period of study
The master’s programme in Applied Cultural Analysis is prescribed to 120 ECTS.

Section 4. Affiliation
The master’s programme in Applied Cultural Analysis falls under the auspices of the study board of the Saxo-Institute and the body of external examiners for Ethnology.

Section 5. Title
On successful completion of the master’s programme with major subject in Applied Cultural Analysis, graduates are entitled to use the title Master of Arts (MA) in Applied Cultural Analysis. The title in Danish is cand. mag. i anvendt kulturanalyse.

Part 3. Technical requirements pertaining to study

Section 6. Reading texts in foreign languages
It is required that the student is able to read scholarly texts in English.

Section 7. Definition of a standard page
A standard page is defined in section 7 of the shared curriculum for study programmes at the Faculty of Humanities.
(2) For the master’s programme in Applied Cultural Analysis also apply:
• If audio-visual material figures in a syllabus, it is counted as 1 minute playtime equals 1 standard page.
• If websites are included, the material is copied into a word processor and converted into standard pages.

Section 8. Syllabus
The syllabus provisions are presented on Study Information on KUnet, under Exams → Exam types and rules → Syllabus.

Part 4. Competency goals and academic profile

Section 9. Competency description
Trained in ethnographic fieldwork and on a basis of a variety of cultural analytical perspectives, a graduate in Applied Cultural Analysis has developed an advanced competency to collect and process qualitative data regarding cultural issues. A graduate is highly skilled within a selection of qualitative methods and masters the ability to organize and analyze empirical material. Furthermore, the graduate is trained in designing, conducting, administrating and evaluating cultural analytical projects. Through the Master of Applied Cultural Analysis the graduate achieves competences and practical experience in applying cultural analysis in addressing professional challenges in corporations, public institutions and NGOs. Qualitative methods enable the graduate to facilitate, investigate, research, and develop organizational settings and contribute to defining and innovating core values and potentials, as well as to undertake stakeholder analysis. Graduates holding a master’s degree in Applied Cultural Analysis find employment in consultancy firms, private companies, state bodies, municipalities, research institutions and humanitarian organizations.

Section 10. Competency profile

The master’s programme in Applied Cultural Analysis gives the student:

Knowledge:
- of the diverse implications of the concept of culture as well as the perspectives entailed by applying it.
- of culture theory regarding social life, everyday life, valuing practices etc.
- of the complex influence of cultural processes on phenomena in organizations and society.
- of fieldwork methods such as, e.g. qualitative interview and participant observations.

Skills in:
- crafting a problem in a reflexive manner.
- independently conducting cultural analyses, including the selection of relevant methodological approaches from their analytical abilities and reflecting on ethical implications of the application of these methods and their outcomes.

Competencies in:
- the identification, interpretation, and analysis of cultural phenomena, diversity, and processes in different contexts and communicating this in oral and written forms.
- designing, managing, and critically evaluating a project within the time schedule and the frames given by economy and resources.
- translating cultural analytical insights to critically reflected recommendations, valuable for the relevant stakeholders (public organizations, citizens, private enterprises, NGOs, etc.).
- work independently in teams to address cultural analytical problems in various environments.
- independently taking responsibility for own professional development and specialization.

Part 5. Structure and course elements

Section 11. Structure

The study programme consists of subject elements corresponding to 90 ECTS, including a master’s thesis corresponding to 30 ECTS. The study programme also contains electives corresponding to 30 ECTS.

(2) The thesis must be written in semester 4 and completes the studies. The student has to have passed 60 ECTS in order to register for the thesis.

Section 12. Study programme profiles/specialisations

The master’s programme in Applied Cultural Analysis contains no profiles or specialisations.

Section 13. Master’s programme in applied cultural analysis

The study programme contains a 30 ECTS mobility window which students use for master’s elective studies, studying abroad, etc.

Academic targets
At the examination, the student can demonstrate:

Knowledge of:
- A specific problem of cultural analysis.

Skills in:
- Crafting, delineating and tackling a relevant research question, and application of cultural analysis to a specific theme.
- Collecting, selecting, and limiting empirical material of relevance to the analysis.
- Discussing key concepts, and relate these to significant theoretical perspectives.
- Explicitly and critically arguing for decisive choices (including strategies of analysis).
- Analyzing the material on a sound conceptual and methodological basis.
- Documenting and conveying analytical findings clearly and with mastery of the scholarly register.
- Summarising the thesis’ contents and results in an adequate and precise manner.

Competencies in:
- Demonstrating originality and independence in relation to thematic cluster, problem, method, collection of data, analysis, and theoretical perspective.
- Putting the results of the thesis into critical perspective, e.g. in relation to previous research in the field and/or a specific field of application.
- Independently taking responsibility for own professional development and specialisation.

Teaching and working methods
Supervision.

Exam provisions
Form of exam: Take-home assignment, optional subject.
Scope: 50-60 standard pages and a ½-1 standard page summary.
Assessment: External exam, the 7-point grading scale. The summary is included in the assessment.

Regulations for group exams: The exam can be taken individually or as a group (max 3 students) with individual assessment. If several students work together on a thesis, their individual contributions must constitute distinct units that can be identified and assessed separately. The joint part must not exceed 50% of the total.

Take-home assignments for group exams are: 75-90 standard pages (2 students) or 100-120 standard pages (3 students).

Exam language(s): English or Danish. Summary: If the thesis is written in Danish, the summary must be written in English.

Materials permitted: All.
Part 6. Credit and transitional provisions
